

3RD INTERNATIONAL SYMPOSIUM ON RESTORATIVE JUSTICE
“DISCIPLINING AND TAKING RESTORATIVE JUSTICE FORWARD”

2016, 17th-24th June, Skopelos island, Greece

SYMPOSIUM PROGRAMME

IMPORTANT NOTES:

The programme includes technical information on the scientific and social aspects of the Symposium.

The social programme includes some mandatory events as they form part of the Symposium scientific methodology of engaging and preparing the mind, spirit and body. Optional social events are also highly recommended.

The scientific programme is split into two sections. During the morning sessions, the delegates are allocated an hour of debate on the topic of their choice (see book of abstracts and presentation guidelines). During the evening sessions, working groups will be formed to debate issues of global interest in a Greek symposium manner. The values and rules of the symposium methodology will be discussed and agreed upon during the opening ceremony. The sessions will be chaired by the Symposium organising committee and notes will be taken by the Secretariat. Photographs and occasional filming will take place. Consent forms will be provided upon registration. Delegates are requested to indicate any issues that they might have as soon as possible.

“Included” means that the cost will be covered by RJ4All and that the delegates will not have to pay.

“Not included” means that participation is optional and with an additional charge. Costs for these optional items will be heavily subsidized and therefore in order to reserve a place, delegates must let the Secretariat know by no later than May 30, 2016 by emailing RJSymposium@rj4all.info

Refreshments during the presentations are included in the registration fee.

* Travel to Glossa is included in the delegates’ registration fee. To book additional places for family and friends there will be a small charge. Please let the Secretariat know by no later than June 5, 2016 by emailing RJSymposium@rj4all.info

* The Skopelos Mama Mia tour is free of charge for all delegates and family.

* The welcome reception in Athens includes dinner and drinks and is included for all delegates and their family and friends. Delegates who will be bringing additional people are kindly asked to confirm names and numbers by no later than June 5, 2016 by emailing RJSymposium@rj4all.info
